Findings:

Product audited was found to have proper traceability and records from start to finish. All proper identification on production bins and boxes was in place. Lots are assigned at time of receipt and have a unique identifier to note whether the kratom is green, white or red. Product is sampled at random for testing to ensure an accurate randomized test is perfomred on each batch. Test log shows product that was sent out for test and shows test results for product that was deemed as approved. Testing log is color coded for easily identifying what lot numbers are no longer in use, and what lot numbers are currently being used for fulfillment. Only product in quarantine is that in bulk located in Las Vegas warehouse and is not used for production fulfillment at new facility. Approved supplier list is readily available and is used for placing purchase orders.

Findings:

Production will eventually be handed off to third-party co packaging facility once current inventory is depleted. Control is in place at time of receipt and releasing product from quarantine (including reviewing test results and deeming product as acceptable or rejected). Product being approved from testing to be used in production is still done by Gabe Swope. Product is color coded on company log to note what lot numbers are available, not for use, closed out and waiting for testing. Labels generated by management for production to use per specific lot number and size of packaging.

Receiving/Testing/Production/Long Term Storage Log

Kratom Lot Tracing Log

Findings:

All storage containers are properly identified with lot number, mitragynine content and 70H. Kratom Lot Tracing Log shows each individual lot number with the start of use and the end of use dates. Lots highlighted in green are still in use. Product is still recieved and batched in groups of 1,000 kilos for traceability and processing. Product is no longer color coded with bins and shelf labeling. Product is stored per company name, strain and bag size.

GMP007 Rev A - Product Recall - Customer Complaints GMF001 Rev A - Adverse Effects Questionnaire

Findings:

All product complaints are tracked via different folders set up within company email. Product complaints are tracked via Shipping Complaints, Adverse Effects and Product Complaints. Per Product Recall and Customer Complaints Procedure - thresholds have been put in place for escalation to management for customer complaints. Tracking sperad sheet for batch and lot tracking is used, if necessary, to help trace product through any customer complaints. Verified that company still uses same customer service protocols and tracking of customer complaints. No recalls have been issued/found necessary since last audit.
